NORWEGIAN STEAMER DESTROYED BY MINE BUT CREW IS SAVED

Is Second Disaster to Neutral Vessels Since German Sea Zone Decree Went Into Effect Feb. 18

FRENCH SHIP TORPEDOED BY SUBMARINE TUESDAY

Members of Crew Aided by Germans in Reaching Port After Their Vessel Is Sent to Bottom

(By Associated Press.) NAKSROG, Denmark (Via London), Feb. 19.—The Norwegian steamer Naksrog struck a mine at 8 o'clock this morning and sank. Her crew was saved. This is the second disaster to neutral vessels since the German sea zone decree took effect.

The Naksrog, laden with coal, was on her way from Leth to Naksrog. The tank steamer, Bodrig, the first Norwegian vessel to meet with disaster in Germany's zone, was torpedoed yesterday by a submarine near Folkestone and beached, badly damaged.

The Bodrig was a small vessel 125 feet long and 35 feet across.

Germans Aid French Crew to Port After Sinking Steamer

(By Associated Press.) CHERBOURG, France, Feb. 19.—The story of the sinking Tuesday of the French steamer Ville de Lille by a German submarine off Cherbourg, has been made more interesting by the fact that the submarine, he said, was the D-16.

The D-16, he said, was the first of a new class of submarines built in Germany. It was 100 feet long and 25 feet across.

The crew took to the boats and pulled for Cherbourg. They were aided by the German submarine, which towed them to port.

When it was seen that the D-16 was not going to sink, the German submarine came up and towed the Ville de Lille to port.

GEN. VON HINDENBURG IS TRYING TO FLANK WARSAW ON NORTH

Task Is Rather Daring and Fraught With Great Risks Unless German Forces Are Overwhelming

RUSSIAN REINFORCEMENTS CHECK GERMAN ADVANCE

Kaiser Is Hammering Away at Allies' Lines in West and Keeping British Busy South of Ypres

(By Associated Press.) GENEVA, via Paris, Feb. 19.—A Russian dispatch says the Russians have begun to bombard Przemyśl with heavy artillery, and have driven the Austrians back along the line of the Krakow-Gorlice.

The Austrians have reported to have suffered heavy losses in the past three days at Przemyśl, near Dukla pass.

Germans Try to Flank Warsaw from the North

(By Associated Press.) LONDON, Feb. 19.—German movements on the northern extremity of the eastern front seem to have been decided. The Germans are reported to be locked with Russian reinforcements at many points on the Russian river below Kovno down the right bank of the lower Vistula, and military experts in London say it is difficult to visualize that position.

The campaign in Austrian Bukovina continues, with prospects of developing into a decisive battle on the banks of the Pruth.

In Galicia repeated violent Austrian attacks against the Russian positions in the Carpathian passes have been costly to both sides, but they have left the alignment little changed.

In the west the Germans are hammering away in an endeavor to recover lost ground. They are reported to be keeping the British troops especially busy along the Ypres, Belgium, and elsewhere along their comparatively extended front. According to French and British claims, however, the enemy has made no appreciable gains.

Morath Likes German Defensive to Tactics of Lee

(By Associated Press.) BERLIN, Feb. 19.—(Via London.) Major Morath, military expert of the magazine, says the present Russian offensive has resulted in capture of Tauragga, and that the enemy now is retreating still further, apparently because of reinforcements have been sent them from Kovno.

There also has been fighting north-west of Grodno, probably against the Russian line of communication.

The situation is just as favorable in the district of the Narva river, near Luga, where the Germans are still contending with apparently fresh Russian troops on the frontier at Lomza.

"This whole movement is the result of the Russian victory. It was well prepared and splendidly carried out. General Morath says the Russian line north of Tauragga is the fortified line north of Tauragga."

Major Morath declares the western front is still in the hands of the allies' offensive, and adds: "The Russian line north of Tauragga is the fortified line north of Tauragga."

TRAIN CREW NARROWLY ESCAPES DEATH IN GEORGIA FREIGHT WRECK AT DECATUR

After the smash-up at Decatur, an Agassiz Scott girl snaphotting the wreck.

Engineer and Fireman Have No Time to Jump, but Escape Injury, When Georgia Road Engine Jumps Track

Ten freight cars were smashed to bits and the engine overturned in a ditch when an extra through freight train ran for about fifty yards on a trestle over a ditch when it left the track and turned over.

The wreck is said to have been due to the faulty working of an automatic switch recently installed at the junction of the double-track from Decatur into the single-track line.

The trolley was stuck for about three hours and although a wrecking train was sent to the scene it was not until about five o'clock that the engine and cars were freed.

There were no serious injuries, but the engine and cars were damaged. The trolley was stuck for about three hours and although a wrecking train was sent to the scene it was not until about five o'clock that the engine and cars were freed.

(By Associated Press.) LONDON, Feb. 19.—The British and French fleets, it was officially announced today, bombarded the Dardanelles forts Friday with considerable effect.

The bombardment was renewed today, the announcement added, with sea planes and aeroplanes co-operating.

The text of the admiralty's announcement follows: "Yesterday morning at 8 o'clock a British fleet of battleships and battle cruisers, accompanied by destroyers and a strong French squadron, the whole of the Dardanelles fleet, began an attack upon the forts at the entrance to the Dardanelles."

The forts at Cape Helles and Kum Kale were bombarded with shells of long range fire. Considerable effect was produced by the bombardment.

"The others were frequently hit, but being open earthworks, it was difficult to estimate the damage done. The forts were frequently hit, but being open earthworks, it was difficult to estimate the damage done."

DECISION FOR LEO FRANK WOULDN'T MEAN FREEDOM

Lawyers Do Not Now Contend He Could Not Again Be Tried

(By Associated Press.) WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—Attorneys for Leo M. Frank contend to date for the murder of Mary Phagan, the Atlanta factory girl, filed in the supreme court today briefs in Frank's appeal from the Georgia federal court's refusal to release him in a habeas corpus proceeding.

The appeal will be argued next week. They contend the trial court lost jurisdiction by abdication its functions to the jury, and when the first jury was set aside, the court was left with no one to try the case.

Mayor Sees No Other Reason Why Police Chief Should Disobey His Superiors

(By Associated Press.) The charge by Mayor Woodward that the interference of outsiders is largely responsible for the attitude of Chief of Police L. L. Beavers toward the police department and the city council and for the disorganized condition of the police department is the latest sensation in the situation.

Chief Beavers spent Saturday morning going over the records of the city council, presumably in an effort to locate any ordinance which has been violating the police department's jurisdiction.

Germans Aid French Crew to Port After Sinking Steamer

(By Associated Press.) CHERBOURG, France, Feb. 19.—The story of the sinking Tuesday of the French steamer Ville de Lille by a German submarine off Cherbourg, has been made more interesting by the fact that the submarine, he said, was the D-16.

The D-16, he said, was the first of a new class of submarines built in Germany. It was 100 feet long and 25 feet across.

The crew took to the boats and pulled for Cherbourg. They were aided by the German submarine, which towed them to port.

When it was seen that the D-16 was not going to sink, the German submarine came up and towed the Ville de Lille to port.

BIBLE LESSON FOR EPISCOPAL SUN. SCHOOLS	SUNDAY MUSIC
THE BIBLE LESSON FOR EPISCOPAL SUNDAY SCHOOLS	TRINITY METHODIST. MORNING

First Sunday in Lent:
Joseph Forgives His Brethren.

[illegible]

But the main thread of our narrative and what chiefly concerns us today is the connection with his brother Joseph, as he is testified under three headings. First, Joseph telling his brothers: second, Joseph revealing himself to his brothers; and third, Joseph revealing himself to his family.

With starvation straining him in the face, Jacob knew Benjamin at home in Egypt, where they "bowed down themselves to Joseph, with their faces to the ground." (Gen. 42:7) But he was not aware of being spies, accusing them of being spies and putting them in jail for three days. Finally, Joseph reveals himself to them, and to let the other nine go home, with wheat for their families. And he presents what for him was a new revelation.

And then Benjamin down on his knees.

men, "for the consciousness of former guilt. We are verily guilty," they said, "conscious of our brother's sin, and of the distress of his soul, when he therefore and we would not hear, he sought to be heard, and we would not hear, because it was not our duty to hear. Forgiveness is required." Next they are completely money-minded in their avarice, but by means of this, their sense of sin is quickened. "What is this that God hath done to us? This is the first time that we have resulted in anything while they do not yet recognize in Joseph the boy they tried to murder before the eyes of the world. Now they are sorry for their sin and are ready to be reconciled. This is the foundation of the wonderful provision of God."

There yet remains the need for another

THE SECOND JOURNEY.

On getting up, Simon's wife is overcome with grief. Simeon is not and Joseph is not, and now the price of freedom has been paid. The mother says: "But the wolf is at the door and bread must be had." She calls Benjamin along. There another surprise awaits them. They find all invited to a banquet. The father and his sons are arranged according to their ages, as if my someone were to come. But there is no special favor. What can it all mean? The banquet breaks up without any explanation and the guests depart.

fresh supply of water. Everything is lovely, when suddenly the Egyptian slave, who accuses them of the thievery of Joseph's silver cup, is brought entirely before them. The cup, which he indignantly refuses the charge and agree that the thief is among them, is found in the hall, and they themselves be hounded out. The cup, alas, is found in Benjamin's bag, and he is hounded away back to Egypt to face the prospect of death for Benjamin and perdition for himself. The incident follows Judah's plea for Benjamin, one of the noblest specimens ever recorded of a man's love for his brother, in which Judah offers to abide in Benjamin's place.

The testing of Joseph's brothers is now complete, this is the climax. And now the story is told in the following order:

He makes himself known unto his brothers, not only as to who he is, "I am Joseph," but also as to what he has done for them. He tells them how he has been favored by God, how he has prospered in Egypt, how he has become a great man, and how he has been able to save his family from starvation.

The story of Joseph's life is a beautiful illustration of God's faithfulness to His promises. It shows us how God can use even the most difficult circumstances to bring about good things for those who trust in Him.

HAPPENING AT A TYPE OF THE CHRIST

The deep-rooted tendency of human nature to reject and even to persecute the true and good, even though it may be clearly shown in the persecution of the young Joseph by his brothers, is a type of the history of the world. Its climax is seen in the rejection and crucifixion of the loving Christ. The resurrection of the Lord, its consummation, was the chain of events which brought about the redemption of mankind by His goodness, extending to all men, and the assurance of eternal life to all who believe the cleansing spirit.

The story of Joseph and his brethren is one which has been told upon us many times. We realize that all sin today is practically a rejection of Christ. It is a fight against Him, fighting a losing battle. The day will come when we shall have won the day.

The story of Joseph and still more the story of Christ crucified and risen, are the two great facts of our life. And it is so that we can trust in God to bring us out all right in the end. He will take care of us. He will fight us in our catchment, under the two heads: duty toward God, and our duty toward man.

Special attention should be called to the fact that the church is not here to give us its treasures as we forgive those who trespass against us.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

BY DR. MARION M'H. HULL.

[illegible]

So they gathered into the camp for a consultation. They were so blind in their anger that they did not think at all why they should have been smitten before their enemies. Why God had allowed them to be so completely defeated before these heathen, idol worshipping nations. They did not know which they felt sure would bring them victory, and throw off the yoke of their oppressors. They were so blind that they did not know that the ark from Shiloh where it had been placed, was the ark of the covenant which they fought into the fight. Surely with this emblem of the presence of God in their midst they should have been able to win.

So the people sent to Shiloh that they might know the will of the Lord. The covenant of the Lord of hosts, who dwelt between the cherubim. The two angels who were placed on the shoulders of the ark apparently, and they were told that the Lord had said they had any trouble gaining the conquering of the Philistines, they should place their trust in Him. Instead of trusting in God Himself and getting right with Him, they were trusting in the symbol of His presence. There was no ark in Shiloh any more.

There are not a few who make some mistake today. They trust in the symbol of God's presence, instead of trusting in God Himself, and trusting, or signing a card, or carrying a cross, or wearing a ring, or anything else, as if these things are all good in themselves, and none of these is worth anything without the presence of God. They do not realize His power or her sin, who repeats the words of the Lord, and says that as he or she is capable, who asks forgiveness, and trusts only in His presence, and that is the only way to win in God. Such a man or woman may be able to do many things, but should at any time turn from God, any one of these forms or ceremonies will be of no use. The ark of Israel was where they trusted in the presence of God, rather than in the presence of God.

ment of old her for the sake of God to be a witness to the world. He was content but he had so long since lost any interest over his own sons that if he did protest against their going he would only think he protested, and that they would not care for his protest. He was comforted after this was for that precious symbol.

Two people awaited with expectancy and when the ark of God came into their view they were great as the mountains the Philistines themselves tremble. The enthusiasm which was created by the presence of this ark was not easily calmed to make the opposing forces tremble for Israel had been victorious.

This, however, aroused the Philistines to a great extent. They were angry because of the ark they had taken away. Or when they learned what was the cause of the about they passed the word.

such a thing heretofore. We use unto you that shall deliver us out of the hands of these mighty gods. These are the gods that smote the Egyptians with all the plagues in the wilderness. Be strong, and quit yourselves like men. O ye Philistines, that ye be not servants unto the Hebrews, as they have been to you; quit yourselves like men, and fight."

...his name had been dragged into the dust was sufficient. Eli had faults, but this was one virtue of which we may be sure he had enough men and women today care enough for the name of God, to be content with what has been dragged into the dust. Be sure that you have not mistle your trust.
